THE COLLECTION

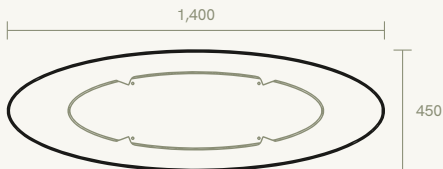

Endless Summer is four coffee tables in solid oak: Dawn Patrol, Solstice, Equinox and First Light. They take their names from light and season on the coast, and they share one shape language: soft edges, angled legs, a low shelf, nothing extra.

Each table is made from a few flat parts. We design them here on the Dolphin Coast, cut them from solid oak on our CNC router, finish them by hand and join them with slots and bolts.

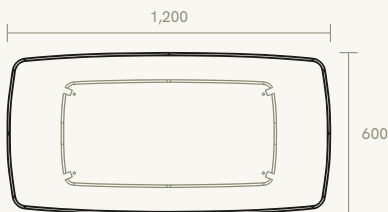

Look underneath any of them. The way it is made is part of the design.

A round top, 850 mm across, and a round shelf, on three angled legs. Three points always meet the floor, so it stands steady on a stoep, on tiles or on old wooden boards.

Look again. Turn it over: three legs, three bolts, nothing else.

Six parts.

THE TOP, FROM BELOW · FOUR SLOTS FOR THE LEGS

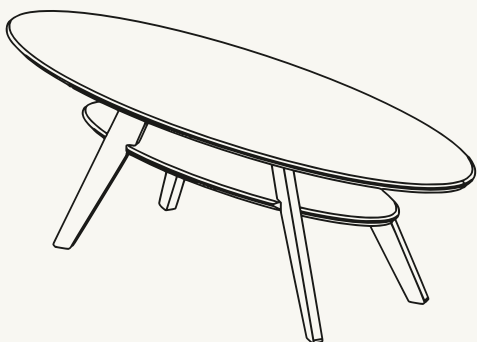

THE SHELF

FOUR LEGS, ONE PROFILE

One table.

Cut flat. Every part is cut from 22 mm solid oak on Victoria, our CNC router. Because the router cuts to the drawing, the parts repeat: a damaged part can be cut again and replaced.

Built solid. Each leg locates in a slot in the underside of the top. On its way down it passes through a slot in the edge of the shelf, where a bolt holds it. The shelf ties the legs together, and the bolts undo, so the table comes apart again.

Finished by hand. Sanded and oiled by hand. The machine gives exactness; the hand gives judgment.

Nothing hidden. A leg, the shelf and one bolt.

FIRST LIGHT · LEG, SHELF AND BOLT

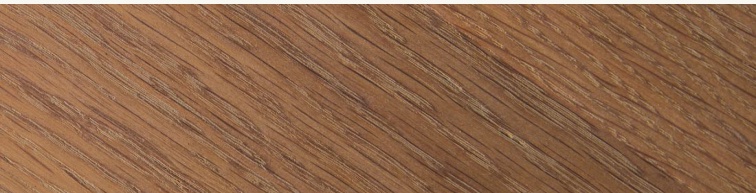

Three colours

Solid oak, all the way through: never a veneer over board. Every table comes in one of three colours, at one price. Each is a Rubio Monocoat oil, worked in by hand. It bonds with the surface of the wood, so what you touch is oak, not a coating on top of it.

KEEP IT

Made to be kept

Look after it. Wipe it with a damp cloth. When the oak looks dry, oil it again: the finish can be refreshed in place.

Repair it. If a part is ever damaged, it can be cut again from the same drawing and replaced. You keep the table.

Numbered. The first ten of each design are numbered underneath, 1 to 10, beside the W, and recorded to their first owner.

The lowest-waste object is the one you do not replace.

OAK AND WILD TEAK

Two woods

The boards, platters, plates and trays come in oak or wild teak, solid hardwood all the way through. Choose either when you order. The Endless Summer tables are solid oak.

OAK

WILD TEAK

GREAT KAROO · THE SAME BOARD IN EACH WOOD

OAK · GREAT KAROO

Oak. Pale and warm, the colour of straw and honey, with a straight, even grain. Oil brings the grain forward.

WILD TEAK · GREAT KAROO

Wild teak. Darker and richer: a deep red-brown, often with paler bands running through it, so no two boards are alike. Oil brings out its warmth.

Koppie, Great Karoo and the Lazy Susan are edge-grain: strips of solid hardwood glued edge to edge.
